

COVID - 19 Journal

2020 - January

The first thing I remember about COVID - 19 was the mention of it appearing on a cruise ship. People were getting sick, so they decided to keep these people quarantined on the boat for a week or two. We talked a little bit about it in our Social Studies class, but that was all.

2020 - February

There was a little more talk of it, but it was mostly all brushed off.

2020 - March

Using Snapchat Memories, I believe it was March 18th when our high school had a "2-week-break" to keep kids safe from the continuing spread. Those long 2 weeks became even longer, with more and more extensions being announced.

2020 - April

Eventually it was announced that we would not be coming back.

2020 - May

Poor Seniors; They didn't get a good graduation. But this really was a Summer that seemed to last forever. My mom and I decided to do a little running with the dog each day to keep active. One thing I enjoyed about this time off was actually getting to see the unique skies and weather of 2020 Spring and Summer.

2020 - June

I remember June like this: Green. A beautiful green with a variety of colors from plants. It was also my 16th birthday. We had the party outside to decrease possible risk of spreading COVID.

2020 - July

Our school still wanted to have a marching band, so we began to practice outside. Our family started going out to places again, so this is when we started wearing masks commonly.

2020 - August

Not much happened in August. Only a day before school started again my friends decided we should go bowling. School started and we had to wear masks at all times. Our lunch tables had spaces between them to separate kids.

2020 - September

Some of our band classes were outside which was fun. I bought a volleyball which is something I had wanted for a while.

2020 - October

Not much happened.

2020 - November

I started getting into conlanging at this point, which I would now attribute to me choosing CSD as my major. Conlanging is basically "constructing" your own "language."

2020 - December

This Christmas was a little more worrisome, since Grandparents were at risk. Nothing terrible ended up happening though, so that was good.

2021 - January, February, March

Mainly just school happenings with Spring Vacation in March. Masks were still required for flights.

2021 - April.

In April, we had Junior Prom. It was also the time of the academic year where final projects were happening.

2021 - May

Track season was going on. I developed more of my Conlang. Graduation was a little more normal this year; Audience count was limited and masks were required.

2021 - Present 2023 - March

That summer was when everything went back to "normal." For my Senior year, there were really not many restrictions anymore. There were a few COVID scares, but that was all.

COVID-19 Journal

2020-January

The first thing I remember about COVID-19 was the mention of it appearing on a cruise ship. People were getting sick, so they decided to keep these people quarantined on the boat for a week or two. He talked a little bit about it in our Social Studies class, but that was all.

2020-February

There was a little more talk of it, but it was mostly all brushed off.

2020-March

Using Snapchat Memories, I believe it was March 16th when our high school had a "2-week-break" to keep kids safe from the continuing spread. Those long 2 weeks became even longer, with more and more extensions being announced.

2020-April

Eventually it was announced that we would not be coming back.

2020-May

Poor Seniors; They didn't get a good graduation. But this really was a Summer that seemed to last forever.

My Mom & I decided to do a little running with the dog each day to keep active. One thing I enjoyed about this time off was actually getting to see the unique sky & weather of 2020 Spring & Summer

2020-June

I remember June like this: Green. A beautiful green with a variety of colors from plants. It was also my 16th Birthday. We had the party outside to decrease possible risk of spreading COVID.

2020-July

Our school still wanted to have a marching band, so we began to practice outside. Our family started going out to places again, so this is when we started wearing masks commonly.

2020-August

Not much happened in August. Only a day before school started again my friends decided we should go bowling. School started and we had to wear masks at all times. Our lunch tables had spaces between them to separate kids.

2020-September

Some of our band classes were outside which was fun. I bought a volleyball which is something I had wanted for awhile.

2020-October

Not much happened.

2020 - November

I started getting into conlanging at this point, which I would now attribute to me choosing CSD as my major. Conlanging is basically "constructing" your own "language."

2020 - December

This Christmas was a little more worrisome, since Grandparents were at risk. Nothing terrible ended up happening though, so that was good.

2021 - January, February, March

Mainly just school happenings with Spring Vacation in March. masks were still required for flights.

2021 - April

In April, we had Junior Prom. It was also the time of academic year where final projects were happening.

2021- May

Track season was going on. I developed more of my Conlang. Graduation was a little more normal this year; Audience count was limited & masks were required.

2021- Present 2023- March

That summer was when everything went back to "normal." For my Senior year, there were really not many restrictions anymore. There were a few COVID scares, but that was all.