David Saunders' versatility as a jazz and classical saxophonist has been well documented throughout his still young career. Mr. Saunders has attended some of the finest musical institutions in the United States. At the Berklee School of Music in Boston he studied with renowned jazz saxophonists and Blue Note recording artists Jerry Bergonzi and Bill Evans. After receiving his undergraduate degree from Carleton College he attended Indiana University, where he studied with some of the premier music educators in the world including: Eugene Rousseau, David Baker, and Dominic Spera. Mr. Saunders was the featured tenor saxophonist in the internationally renowned IU Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Dr. David Baker.

Mr. Saunder's professional background includes performances with Danny Richmond, Al Cobine, Bob Cobine, Bob Newhart, and the Jimmy Dorsey Band, to name but a few, and he is currently active as a freelance musician in New York City.

The UW-Eau Claire music department is pleased to have Mr. Saunders on campus to perform and interact with the students and faculty. We are also pleased to announce that David and his wife Sharon have recently announced the birth of their first child, Ryan. Jazz Ensembles III & IV would like to dedicate this concert to Ryan Saunders and his family.
